

be sent to the Legislature.

Last evening I attended a large meeting of the Working Classes of Boston night. The number present in the room was variously estimated as from 1500 to 2000. It commenced rather unimpressively, and on those charities speaking the old story. However he got a hearing, and thoroughly converted the whole meeting, for on the resolution being proposed adopting the resolution as circulated Vote of gratitude to the Working Classes only three hands were held up against it and the whole went off excellently afterwards.

As soon as the first business among the ladies was done I went outside night & felt for them, I went down to state that W. R. H. was most anxious that their interests should be well represented & that he was most anxious that every thing should be arranged for their comfort as seasons for securing them benefit then were. His look & feel and manner a very impressive
